MURDERER HUNTED AT CREVE COEUR

Police, It Is Said, Believe Highwayman Who Killed John Mohr Is a Gambler.

CLAIMED TO BE AN OFFICER.

Acquaintances Thought "Bud Rhyme" Named by Jury as Slayer of Private Watchman, Was Mentally Unbalanced.

Although they know his name, his haunts and his record, the police after forty-eight hours' search have been unable to find in St. Louis the man who killed Private Watchman John Mohr on Pine street near Theresa avenue Wednesday night.

While chiefs of departments maintain visions regarding the search for the mur-derer, it was reported at the Four Courts yesterday afternoon that they believe he is a Creve Coeur gambler, and that search for him is being made at that resort.
The coroner's jury yesterday morning at the inquest over Private Watchman Mohr returned an open verdict of homicide and charged a man known as "Bud Rhyme" with the crime.

"Bud Rhyme," who is also known as Bud Rhyme, has several aliases. It is said, one of them being Maloney. He was arrested a short time ago for carrying concealed weapons and pretending to be an officer, and was fined $10. Many who know him think he is mentally unbalanced.

When R. O. G. identified the hat which the highwayman dropped while making his escape, as told in yesterday's Republic, he gave the police a complete description of the man with whom he had asked him for an umbrella.

The trade took place in the Dew Drop saloon, at 200 Olive street, last Tuesday night. The deal was witnessed by George Duffy, the proprietor of the saloon, who knew Rhyme, and gave the police his name. Duffy was the saloonkeeper who was held up at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the man who had asked him for an umbrella.
